Keeper

By Mal Peet

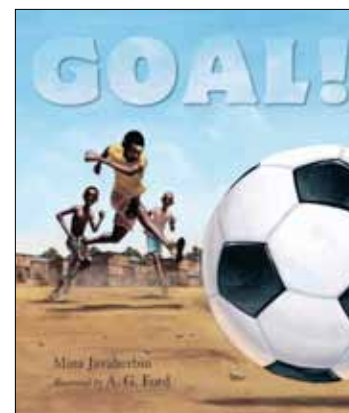

A reissue of an extraordinary debut novel, winner of the Branford Boase Award and the Bronze Nestlé Children's Book Prize.

In a newspaper office, Paul Faustino, South America's top football writer, sits opposite the man they call El Gato "the Cat", the world's greatest goalkeeper. On the table between them stands the World Cup. El Gato tells his incredible story – how he, a poor logger's son, learns to become a World Cup-winning goalkeeper. And the most remarkable part of this story is the man who teaches him: the mysterious Keeper, who haunts a football pitch at the heart of the rainforest...

The Tomorrow Code

By Brian Falkner

Break the code – or tomorrow is history...

Teenagers Tane and Rebecca are receiving messages from the future; messages that predict the end of the world. They have only days to decode them before the mysterious Chimera Project will wipe out the entire human race. Can they change the past and save the future?

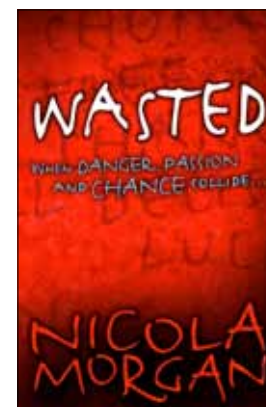

An apocalyptic sci-fi adventure with an ecological twist.

Wasted

By Nicola Morgan

When danger, passion and chance collide...

Jack worships luck and decides his actions by the flip of a coin. No risk is too great if the coin demands it. Luck brings him Jess, a beautiful singer who will change his life. But Jack's luck is running out. As chance and choice unravel, the risks of his game become terrifyingly clear. In the end, it is the reader who must choose whether to spin that coin and determine: life or death.

The Sky Is Everywhere

By Jandy Nelson

A vibrant, deeply romantic and unmissable debut. Seventeen-year-old Lennie Walker spends her time tucked safely and happily in the shadow of her fiery older sister, Bailey. But when Bailey dies abruptly, Lennie is catapulted to centre stage of her own life – and despite her non-existent history with boys suddenly finds herself struggling to balance two. One boy takes Lennie out of her sorrow, the other comforts her in it. But the two can't collide without Lennie's world exploding...

"WOW. I sobbed my eyes out and then laughed through the tears. I have not fallen in love with a story and its characters like this in a long time. Stunning, heartbreaking, hilarious. A story that shakes the Earth."

An Na, Printz Award Winner

"The Sky Is Everywhere evokes the intensity of desire and agony of heartache with breathtaking clarity. This beautifully written story will leave an indelible impression upon your soul."

Susane Colasanti, author of When It Happens

"This honest, complex debut is distinguished by a dreamy California setting and poetic images that will draw readers into Lennie's world . . ."

My Dads

By Kelly Bennett
Illustrated by Paul Meisel

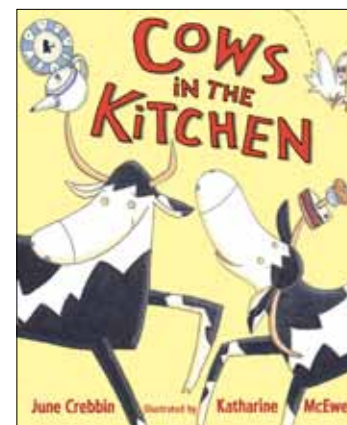

I have two fathers. I call them Dad and Pa. Dad is tall and wears suits. Pa is bald and wears boots. Dad's into gadgets and Pa's into plants; one paints on easels, the other on walls; and they certainly don't share the same taste in music! In this affectionate celebration of blended families, a young girl explains why her dad and stepdad – though completely different – are exactly the same in one important way: they both love her very much.

Life of Pi

By Yann Martell

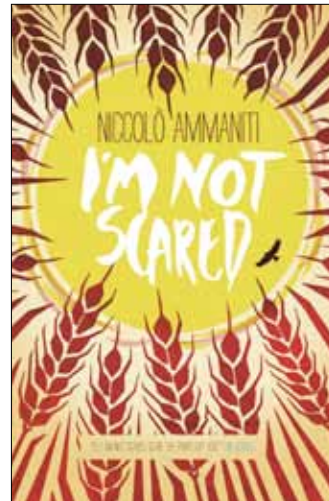

One boy, one boat, one tiger... After the tragic sinking of a cargo ship, a solitary lifeboat remains bobbing on the wild blue Pacific. The only survivors from the wreck are a sixteen-year-old boy named Pi, a hyena, a zebra (with a broken leg), a female orang-utan and a 450-pound Royal Bengal tiger. The scene is set for one of the most extraordinary and best-loved works of fiction in recent years.

I'm Not Scared

By Niccolò Ammaniti

One relentlessly hot summer, six children explore the scorched wheat-fields that enclose their tiny Italian village. When the gang find a dilapidated farmhouse, nine-year-old Michele makes a discovery so momentous he dare not tell a soul. It is a secret that will force him to question everything and everyone around him. I'm Not Scared is a devastatingly authentic portrayal of childhood and the tension that arises when it must join the adult world. An unputdownable thriller.

The Radleys

By Matt Haig

Meet Clara and Rowan Radley, two teenage kids in an everyday family who juggle normal, dysfunctional lives. Or so they think. For what their parents aren't telling them is that the Radleys are actually a family of abstaining vampires. When Clara is driven to commit a bloodthirsty act of violence one night, her parents need to explain a few things...

"This is a story about growing up, first and foremost. About how we learn to come to terms with who we are, independent of the ideas our parents had for us. About how we have to decide our own identities. As well as what shapes those identities – who we choose to love and hate, admire and fear. It is about how denying ourselves can sometimes be more dangerous than succumbing to temptation."

This is the story I wanted to tell. I never set out to write a vampire story, but vampires were the obvious choice. After all, as family secrets go you can't get much bigger than finding out you are actually a full-blown creature of the night. And hopefully it fits as a metaphor for teenage life. A life full of physical changes, forbidden cravings, and feelings of being an outsider. In that sense, we've probably all been vampires at some stage." Matt Haig

Before We Say Goodbye

By Gabriella Ambrosio

"This is no life. Sooner or later it must finish."

It is 7 a.m. on a spring morning in Jerusalem. Eighteen-year-old Dima trudges through the mud to college and reflects on many things, including her forthcoming marriage to her cousin Faris. Seventeen-year-old Myriam skips school to sit on the tree-lined hill overlooking the city and think about her friend Michael, whose death she still mourns. And Dima's and Myriam's families – one Palestinian, one Israeli – go about their ordinary, separate lives; for today is like every other day.

Yet in seven hours' time, everything will have changed.
